Editorial policies
The Journal of Emergency Nursing welcomes unsolicited articles. The review process customarily requires 8 weeks, though there are exceptions. Enquiry calls after 8 weeks to ask about the decision are welcomed.

The Journal requires all authors to acknowledge, on the title page of their manuscript, all funding sources and/or granting agencies that supported their work, as well as all institutional or corporate affiliations of all the authors. Authors are also required to disclose to the Editor, in a covering letter at the time of submission, any commercial affiliations or any associations that could pose a conflict of interest or financial bias. These include consultation fees, patent licensing arrangements, company stock, payments for conducting or publicizing a study, travel, honoraria, gifts, or meals. If the article is accepted for publication, the Editor will determine how any conflict of interest should be disclosed. Authors are expected to fulfill the requirements of their employer's publication policy before submitting their manuscript. All manuscripts must be accompanied by the following written statement, signed by each author: “The undersigned author(s) transfer all copyright ownership of the manuscript entitled [title of article] to the Emergency Nurses Association in the event the work is published. The undersigned author(s) warrant that the article is original, does not infringe upon any copyright or other proprietary right of any third party, is not under consideration by another journal, and has not been previously published. The author(s) confirm that they have reviewed and approved the final version of the manuscript.”

Because articles published in the Journal are copyrighted by ENA, authors who wish to republish their work in part or whole elsewhere must request permission to do so.

Preparation of manuscripts
The original and 1 copy of manuscripts and supporting material, plus a diskette, should be submitted to the Editor (Gail Pisarcik Lenehan) or appropriate Section Editor. One complete copy should be retained by the author. Manuscripts must be typed double-spaced. Research and clinical articles should be limited to 6 to 10 pages (including references, tables, and illustrations). Case Reviews should be limited to 3 to 5 pages.

Title page The title page should include the title, full name(s) of author(s), academic degrees, position, institution, city, state, and ENA chapter name, if a member. The corresponding author should be designated; include home address, business and home phone numbers, fax number, and E-mail address.

Abstracts Studies require a structured abstract—250 words or less—roughly based on the IMRAD style. The format should be as follows: Introduction, Methods, Results, and Discussion. Abstracts must fit in one printed column and will be edited for space requirements.

Body of text Standard abbreviations should be used consistently throughout the article. Unusual or coined abbreviations should be spelled out at first mention and followed in parentheses by the abbreviation. The policy of the Journal is to abbreviate the term “emergency department” when it modifies a word (eg, “ED procedure”) and to spell it out when it is used as a noun (eg, “in the emergency department”). The term “emergency nurse” should be used.

The generic name of a drug should be used instead of the proprietary name whenever possible. If it is necessary to use a trade name for a drug, it should be capitalized and inserted parenthetically after the generic name when first mentioned. Product names should be treated similarly, and the manufacturer’s full name, city, and state should be cited in a footnote or in parentheses in the text.

Weights and measurements should be expressed in metric units and temperature in degrees centigrade, followed with Fahrenheit degrees in parentheses.

References References should be to the original sources of information in most instances. Number references sequentially in order of their mention in the text, and type the reference list double-spaced at the end of the text. Bibliographies will not be published. Our reference style: Format for journal articles: For standard journal articles, list all authors when 7 or less; when more than 7, list 6 plus et al: You CH, Lee KY, Chey RY, Mengyu R. Electrocardiographic study of patients with unexplained nausea, bloating, and vomiting. Gastroenterology 1980;79:311-4.

Tables Tables should be typed double-spaced on separate sheets of paper. They should be numbered in order of their mention in the text. Be sure that a title is included for each table and that full credit is given (in the form of a footnote to the table) to the original source of previously published material.

Illustrations and legends Send one complete set of illustrations. Number figures consecutively in order of their mention in the text. Mark lightly in grease or soft-lead pencil on the back of the illustration the figure number and name of the first author. Indicate orientation by marking the top edge. Do not send original artwork, x-ray films, or EKG strips. Black-and-white glossy prints, 3 x 4 inches (minimum) or larger, are preferred. Consistency in size of illustrations within the article is strongly preferred. Any special instructions regarding sizing should be clearly noted. It is preferable to omit figures rather than submit inadequate ones. Do not mar the surface with clips or staples. Illustrations will not be returned unless requested. Legends must accompany each figure. Type legends separately and include after the references. If an illustration was previously published, the legend must give full credit to the original source.

Electronic illustration submission Figures may be submitted in electronic format. All images should be at least 5 inches wide. Images should be provided in EPS or TIFF format on Zip disk, CD, floppy, Jaz, or 3.5 MO. Macintosh or PC platform is acceptable. Graphics software such as Photoshop and Illustrator, not presentation software such as PowerPoint, CorelDraw, or Harvard Graphics, should be used in the creation of the art. Gray scale images should be at least 300 DPI with a proof. Combinations of gray scale and line art should be at least 1200 DPI, accompanied by a proof. Please include hardware and software information, in addition to file names, with the disk.
Copyrighted material and photographic consent

Direct quotations, tables, and illustrations that have appeared in copyrighted material must be accompanied by written permission for their use from the copyright owner and original author and complete source information cited. Articles appear in both the print and online versions of the journal, and wording of the letter should specify permission in all forms and media. Failure to get electronic permission rights may result in images not appearing in the online version. Photographs of identifiable persons, whether patients or staff, must be accompanied by signed releases, such as the following: “I hereby give [author’s name] permission to use the photograph of [subject’s name] in the Journal of Emergency Nursing.”

Special sections

Contributions to special sections are not peer reviewed as a rule. Authors work directly with the section editor, who makes the final decision regarding acceptance. Queries should be E-mailed directly to the appropriate section editor.
